The COIN PRESS Magazine

A MONTHLY MAGAZINE FOR THE COLLECTOR OF COINS, CURRENCY, TOKENS AND MEDALS.

"Coin collecting is fun, interesting, educational and sometimes profitable. Start your set today or get a friend interested. Start with a copy of The Coin Press Magazine!"

The Rare uncirculated 1918/17-S Quarter, estimate value over $1,000.

What makes this quarter so rare? If you will note the date you'll see there is the figure 8 over the 7. Like many overdates they are scarce and of low numbers. Other rare or scarce overdates are the 1823/22 quarter fine, $700., 1869/68 Indian cent unc. $110., the 1918/17-D nickel XF $350., 1942/41 dime unc. $150.

How an overdate is made—This is caused and made as the result of a need for coins and the new die isn't ready. At the end of each year the dies are destroyed, only the master die is saved. If the new die of the new year isn't ready then the old hub is used to make another die of the previous year, but before it is case hardened the date is re-engraved while it is still soft. For an example the figure 8 is engraved over the 7 as in the above photo. No records are kept of these but are included in the regular issue of the number struck. Under these circumstances most all overdates are of low numbers and scarce. Of particular note are the early bust type halves with about 20 overdates but priced low and easily obtainable. Supply and demand as usual is the determining factor in pricing.

FROM YOUR EDITOR'S DESK

Meet our new addition to the household, "Ebony Coin Press", six month's old. Our Youngest son Tommy calls him "Pressy" who is also enthused about the coin market.

"I wonder which will be the sleeper?"

"Hum, maybe I should have bought that roll of 1950-D for $120.00 when I had the chance.

New Grading Series—We are getting well on the way of publishing a new set of grading series each month. We hope to improve on the old and add new information. Due to the fact a decent simple illustrated book form on this sorely needed subject has yet to be put on the market, we will again venture into this subject. In the near future I hope to publish this book, or at least before the end of the summer. I don't know where I'll find the time, but I think this subject has been long overlooked and avoided. I at least hope to accomplish a corner stone for the hobby if nothing else. Our readers' comments and suggestions on this subject will be greatly appreciated and considered.

NOTE—When writing our office or any other party for an early reply or a reply, please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

We are still getting mail forwarded from our old address in Newark, please note our new address above.

Rolls still popular but we would like to caution the collector that this is mostly an investor's or speculator's market, should they tire of holding it could bring the prices down. In turn put a sour taste in the collector's mouth and discourage them from the hobby. Coin collecting is for pleasure and interest, it is possible to make a profit at times but let's not outgrow the demand.

Watch! the 1955 Proof Set and price zoom up.

Concerning defacing coinage of the United States. Title 18, U.S. Code, section 311, provides as follows:

"Whoever fraudulently alters, defaces, mutilates, impairs, diminishes, falsifies, scales, or lightens and of the coins coined at the mints of the United States, or any foreign coins which are by law made current or are in actual use or circulation as money within the United States; or

"Whoever fraudulently possesses, passes, utters, publishes, or sell, or brings into United States, any such coin, knowing the same to be altered, defaced, mutilated, impaired, diminished, falsified, scaled, or lightened—

"Shall be fined not more than $2,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both."

The foregoing statute does not prohibit the mutilation of coins if done without fraudulent intent or if the mutilated coins are not used fraudulently. However, the Treasury Department considers the mutilation of coins to be undesirable and seeks to discourage the practice whenever possible. Office of the Chief, U.S. Secret Service, Treasury Dept., Washington D.C., U. E. Baughman, Chief U.S. Secret Service.

Letters from the Readers

POSSIBLE NEW VARIETY

Dear Mr. Spadone:

In the January issue of The Coin Press there is an article on how to identify a 1864-L cent. Is this always the case or are there exceptions? I have two (2) with the point of the bust directly over the one (1) in the date and there is no trace of an L. I have one I purchased from a dealer that is supposed to be 1864-L but the bust protrudes way past the figure 1.

Also in the same article concerning the type I and type II Indian cent, the year 1886 is the only year known with both types 1 and 2. I have an 1880 type I and an 1880 type 2. The type 1 is a close date. The coin is good, the date is sharp and clear. The type 2 with the last feather pointing between the C-A is abt./fine. The date is sharp and clear. It is a wide date. Can you tell me any more about this. Is this an error in the printing of the article or a find.

I also have a 1945, P (above the dome) nickel believed to be of the copper nickel type and a 1947 nickel believed to be of the silver type. Have you seen or heard of any of this sort?

—Russell T. Golliver
Grover Hill, Ohio

Dear Sirs:

I recently began to collect coins. I took for my specialty something I find to be rather unusual, that is I collect the silver coinage of England. There has been one major difficulty I have yet to figure out how to overcome. I do not know of any dealer who has a stock of English silver coins. I have picked up a few items from one dealer or another, but I still have not found one really good source of coins.

At the beginning of this week I requested a sample of your magazine, hoping to find an ad in it from someone who sold English silver.

I was very pleased with the speed with which my sample was sent, but unfortunately, I didn't find an ad for English silver. I was wondering if you could tell me if you know of any of your advertisers who sell English silver coins.

—Richard Gutman

Dear Mr. Spadone:

My oldest boy noticed that my subscription expires in Feb. 1960, and as he knows The Coin Press is my favorite reading material, he surprised me Christmas morning with a postal money order for another year's reading.

Would also like to mention that I believe each edition is getting better; also believe the new title is very good.

Wishing you and all the staff a very happy and healthy new year.

GOLD STILL BEING MELTED

Despite the circular issued by the Federal Reserve Banks calling attention to the fact that all U. S. gold coins (except the 1933 double eagle) are considered collectors items, and should be offered on the numismatic market rather than sent to the Mint—several thousand dollars worth of U. S. gold coins are annually melted down. Melted down during fiscal year 1958 at U. S. mints totaled a fraction under 606 ounces—largely at San Francisco.

REFLECTIONS UPON PAPER CURRENCY

To wage the War between the States, both North and South resorted to the use of fiat currency. Actually, the South had practically no hard money from the very beginning and it soon reached the point where one silver dollar was worth 30 of paper. The North did have gold and silver, but not in sufficient amount, and as the war went on, both metals were hoarded. And therefore the Greenbacks came into existence. And at one time, so low did the fortunes of the North fall, Greenbacks fell to 37¢ on the dollar. And since even small change became scarce, the well known shinplasters came into being.

Practically all of us in the numismatic world are well aware of the Canadian shinplasters. As with us, they also met the need for change and are of more than passing interest. During the summer of 1959 one of these bills made its appearance at Jacoy's, a Spokane tobacco shop, and was accepted by Bob Jacoy. Although its condition was not of the best, it nevertheless had a $1.75 value. The original holder of it should have known that it was worth more than its face value of 25¢ and it may have been a keepsake of sorts.

Few of us take seriously the statement on the dollar bill that it will be redeemed in silver if so demanded by the bearer. But apparently this does not apply to all persons. For example, some time back an item was published in the Numismatic Scrapbook which concerned this very thing. The man written about was quite convinced that paper currency would presently be of little value and he requested redemption to the extent of several thousand dollars. The bank was willing to oblige and gave him the number of silver dollars that was required. It was then that the man who wanted specie discovered something about the weight of silver inasmuch as he found himself unequal to the task of carrying his booty off the premises, no doubt to the great amusement of bank officials. So he had to leave his silver dollars behind and I suppose they were later picked up and hauled off in a truck.

Canadians now and then experience some difficulty with our paper money because we use the same color for all denominations, a thing not true of the Dominion currency. The $1 is green with grey diagonal lines; the $2 brick red with green diagonals; the $5 blue with purple diagonals; the $10 purple with pink diagonals; the $20 olive with grey diagonals; the $50 orange and grey; the $100 brown and grey, and the $1,000 pink and grey. There is a great deal to be said in favor of this system because it helps to avoid confusion and makes instant identification an easy thing. Each note has its value stated in both French and English.

Canadian Silver Five Cent Pieces

By Starr Gilmore

These coins were employed by Canada for quite a period of time inasmuch as they were not abandoned until 1921, their coinage beginning with 1858.

Although they made no trouble in their country of origin, they certainly made a fair amount south of the border. I am reliably informed by a few older citizens that the inspired small fry of former times used them as dimes on every possible occasion and met with a remarkable amount of success. And frequently enough, older persons mistook them for dimes. Had Canadians experienced similar difficulty in any measure we may be sure that they would have been abandoned in short order.

At the time they began, the Sudbury Range was a thing of the future and the use of nickel had no particular recommendation. It remained for a later day to see Canada the leading producer of nickel, a position that she is unlikely to lose very soon, if indeed she ever loses it.

We are assured that the Dominion left off the use of these small coins in order to conserve silver and there is no doubt about the truth of the assertion. It was one thing as long as England furnished the silver needed for Canadian coins, but it was quite another thing when Canada had to do it.

It is a most remarkable fact, and quite unknown to the great majority, that it was many years before Canada was able to produce silver that could be used for coins. Mention of this situation is made for the first time in the 1947 Mint Report. And it should be kept in mind that whereas Canada is long on gold she is short on silver.

Tellurium content in silver plagued the Mint and made it fit only for casting and quite unfit for any form of milling. And although this refractory element before reduction was 0.011 it yet rose to 0.019 after reduction by reason of the fact that more of it was picked up from the cast iron plates used in processing and thus it was made even worse than before. This disagreeable situation was made the subject of serious study.

We learn in the 1948 Report that success in getting rid of most of the tellurium was finally attained and that it was reduced from 0.011 per cent to 0.003 per cent. Too brittle to use before, or frangible as the Mint terms it, the silver was made satisfactory, and in the year given, 193,989.85 ounces of rejected fine metal was rendered fit for coinage. Such is part of the story back of the conservation of England is not intended as a slight to Canada. England had to purchase silver from abroad and the United States certainly furnished some of it. And assuredly Canada paid for the silver.

Silver five cent pieces can look like little gems, and when they do look like them, they also sell like them. Even the not too attractive of this sisterhood must be treated with a degree of respect. In common with many Canadian coins, they finally got in the limelight when it was a little late. Not too highly regarded at their time of issue, a later generation now pays for their neglect.

Going by the Guide Book on Canadian Coins, a complete collection of the silver five cent pieces would cost $1,650 or so in beautiful condition and would not be easy to get together. In merely good condition, about $270.00 would be required and the lion's share of this sum would be spent on the 1921 with its $185.00 beginning price.

A mere 200,000 were minted by the Royal Mint in 1884, the smallest of the series, and Heaton of Birmingham dropped out with 1903. As might be supposed, Birmingham was generally called upon whenever the Royal Mint happened to find itself with an unusual amount of work. In common with the United States, England has always done a good deal of mint work for other countries. For instance, she minted the coins of Ireland.

In connection with the above, it is interesting to note that the Royal Canadian Mint has undertaken outside work only once. This came about in 1938 when 5,060,000 coins were struck for the Dominican Republic of 900 fineness (50 centavos, 25 centavos, 5 centavos, and 1 centavos) the coins so struck corresponding exactly in size to those of the United States. However, England helped out in good measure by the preparation of dies, matrices, and punches, and the coin obverses were designed by Henry Paget.

As with the 1921 half, never intended for circulation, the same applies to the 1921 silver five cent piece. Nevertheless, as with the former, some of them escaped the melting pot and managed to get in circulation. And now and then these coins give rise to interesting finds.

For example, Buddy Schroeder, a Spokane high school student, made such a fortunate find last year. He purchased an odd lot of miscellaneous coins from a woman who was interested in stamps, not in coins, and she was paid for them in mint United States stamps. She had inherited them from an aunt who had formerly lived in Canada and apparently her aunt must have known or cared as little for such things as she did. In any event, he discovered a quite beautiful 1921 among the lot and it is now one of his prized possessions. It is needless to say that events of this kind are few and far between.

There is an obvious moral in this story. When you do not know the value of a thing you have, try to know someone who does. And this by no manner of means applies merely to coins but to a good many other things. Possibly I am all wrong, but I still find it difficult to believe that an intelligent coin collector would sell a lot of old stamps without making some effort to know their worth. And if he should do such a thing, and then discover that he had made a serious mistake, then I fear he would get very little sympathy from me.

Coin designers for the series are the same as for all the other maple wreath types. However, there are eight variants and consequently more than may be found among the maple wreath halves and quarters. The two most expensive are the large date and the round "O" of 1900.

Provided the collector is not too particular, a very satisfactory type collection can be made at no very great cost by picking out the least expensive dates. Of course, this does not apply to the collector who wants all the types for I am assuming that he will largely content himself with a fine Victoria, Edward VII, and George V, together with such others as may strike his purse or fancy.

Unlike a great many collectors, I am more or less sensitive to the opinions of my non-collecting friends. And if I were to show them a rather tired looking collection of cent pieces with no distinction about them except different dates, then I should expect little but pity for my want of sense. It is for this reason that I am more or less in favor of type collecting for I well remember that the first collection I ever saw was very much like the one I have described. But taste differs and that is one thing that makes coin collecting a thing of interest.

Reader Makes A Suggestion

Why not get all the coin magazines to advocate one thing.

Get all coin collectors to go to their bank and really start getting silver dollars, spend them, use them, circulate them.

With the number of collectors we could get some of those musty old mildewed bags into circulation.

It's unbelievable that almost every one does not realize that you can get all the silver dollars at the bank that you want.

They just think they are an oddity and no longer available.

I recently got fifty silver dollars, told the cashier I was a collector. What do you think I drew? Yep, 50 all alike and brand new.

Reflections Upon Paper Currency

By Starr Gilmore

Several years back an article appeared in Coronet devoted to the affairs of the worthy General Mao. He represented the Chinese Nationalist Government and was entrusted with large sums of money. And according to the story that was told, he absconded to Mexico with something like 3 million in a mere 4 or 5 notes of huge denominations. The writer of the piece in question left the reader with the impression that one note in his possession had the value of a million dollars. This annoyed me so much that I wrote the magazine and tried to correct the obvious error.

My amazement was not inconsiderable over the reply which I received. Far from backing down, the magazine stood firmly by its guns and refused to admit error. To be sure, there is such a thing as a million dollar bond, but this was not made clear in the article. As far as I am able to figure out, General Mao must have had very little sense indeed.

Although the man in the street is not aware of it, we do put out a $100,000 note. But to say the least, no collector, regardless of his wealth, is likely to have one in his possession. And if a collector did have one he might well find himself in more trouble than a little.

To begin with, $100,000 notes are remarkably and understandably few in number and are employed by the Federal Reserve to settle balances which involve tremendous sums. The likeness of Woodrow Wilson appears on the notes and it is reasonable to suppose that they encountered very little wear.

I now revert to General Mao and some of his sad experiences. Among other things, he made the remarkable discovery that such things as million dollar bonds could cause considerable embarrassment. As if this should be news. It would indeed be news if otherwise. Our largest note of any convenience is the $100 which features Franklin. The $500 note of McKinley; the $1,000 of Cleveland; the $5,000 of Madison, and the $10,000 of Chase are hardly of the kind that most of us ever expect to see. They would no doubt be interesting items in a collection of paper money.

Those acquainted with the works of Mark Twain will possibly recall the amusing story which he wrote about a man who had a million pound note. As it was impossible for anyone to break it, he contrived for some time to live like a feudal lord on pure credit.

During the course of the second World War a most extraordinary situation arose because it was actually possible to buy a $1,000 note for as little as $700. No, they were not counterfeits; they were genuine. Nevertheless, very few people cared to buy them and those who did frequently found themselves wishing that they had used better sense.

This strange development came about through the activity of black market operators. Gentry in this field found themselves with so much money in small bills as to make life something of a burden. And to better things, they turned their attention to $1,000 notes. In the beginning it worked out all right. But as might be expected, the sudden growth of interest in these big notes caused the Government to wonder why they were so popular. Investigation soon gave the answer and the holders of such notes found themselves subjected to unpleasant questions of highly personal nature. And it was at this point that the black market operators tried to get rid of their unwanted currency. As far as I know, few instances of like nature have ever occurred.

Naturally enough, there is no such thing as counterfeiting any of the truly big notes for the doing of such a thing would be little better than sheer insanity. And this being true, we need never question the authenticity of a $1,000 note. The $100 note seems to represent the limit of effort on the part of spurious money makers.

Corner Brook, Newfoundland, recently furnished an odd story about one of our $1,000 notes. A Chinese restaurant cashed a paycheck with something more than a strange aftermath. A $1,000 note was used to meet the situation and the payee used it a second time to cover an obligation owed his landlord. It seems hard to believe, but it was twice mistaken for a $10 bill. However, the landlord discovered the error several hours later and so also did the restaurant which turned in a $990 robbery report. To get it back, the restaurant paid a $50 reward. We must assume that the note began its career in Newfoundland with the big air base we have there.

Just recently I was both astonished and amused over a newspaper article which stated that a Confederate note was successfully put into English circulation. This is not to say that such a thing has not before attempted. It has been, but hitherto no success has attended such worthy enterprise.

Curiously enough, the $1,000 Confederate note is slowly but surely climbing toward its face value. Of course, only a few were issued, and of the few put out, no great number of them ever saw circulation. A complete collection of Confederate currency in beautiful condition would cost the collector of today a fairly handsome sum of money. (continued on page 9)

FROM JAVA, AN EXOTIC PRE-WAR RELEASE

The Dutch style of this pre-war "5 Gulden" of "De Javasche Bank" is refreshingly different from the more orthodox styles of paper money to be seen in most lands at that time. Notice how the design covers the entire obverse, without margins, and the native figure (magnificently engraved) assumes added stature from the absence of confining borders. The engraving is in purple, with overall background tints of violet and blue. Dated at Batavia, August 4, 1939, the note is of an issue which saw service for many years prior to the War. Reverse inscription is in four languages, including Chinese.

A LOCAL POUND, ISSUED IN THE ISLE OF MAN

While the pound note of the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street", the Bank of England, is familiar to most collectors and is "legal tender" throughout the British Isles, less collectors seem acquainted with the local pounds, circulating by popular acceptance (as did the chartered bank notes in Canada) throughout Scotland, the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man (in the Irish Sea). Martins Bank, Limited, one of five Manx banks of issue, is responsible for this remarkable note (by Waterlow, London), which is perhaps unique among recent issues of the world in that its obverse, reverse, backgrounds, serial numbers, date overprint (1st May, 1953) and signatures all are black. These local pounds of Britain constitute an unusual and quite neglected numismatic series.

50 Bolivianos, An Early Issue of the Recent Inflation

One of the worst inflations to hit the wobbly economies of the South American republics is that which has raged in Bolivia in recent years, making a crisp, blue 10,000 Bolivianos worth something just more than a dollar on foreign exchange. The inflation is one which paper money enthusiasts have watched with interest, for the dwindling buying power has not been reflected (as so often it is) in a cheapening of the quality of the notes. Such beautiful notes as this purple fifty, supported in orange and with prismatic tints in pink and green (A.B.N.Co.), have been available with little difficulty. The splendid engraving is highlighted in the vignettes of two heroes of the continent, Simon Bolivar (left) and Mariscal A. J. de Sucre. Reverse, red, depicts the Bolivian arms.

THE STRAITS SETTLEMENTS DOLLAR, GEORGE V.

This pleasant, blue note is distinguished by the quality of its royal portraiture, and highlighted in appearance by the multihued supporting design so characteristic of the work of its engravers, Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co., Ltd., the English affiliate of American Bank Note. The note points up the truth that coinage persists where notes do not, for the silver pieces of this British Asiatic region are extremely common, yet the bank notes, replaced since the war by those of Malaya and British Borneo, are seldom seen. This dollar is dated at Singapore, 1st January, 1935, and on its blue reverse depicts a stalking tiger in tall grass.

An earlier Portuguese Colonial issue, for Mozambique

The collector who seeks "one of each country" has his troubles when he searches out the diverse colonial issues of Portugal, whether it be the rupee of Goa, the Angolares of west Africa, or the pataca of Timor. The notes of Mozambique, possibly by virtue of the greater population or more active commerce, seem more accessible: this one is unusual only for its relatively early vintage. It is a 20 centavos fractional of the Banco Nacional Ultramarino, Lisbon, issued locally at Lorenzo Marques, Nov. 5, 1914. The engraving is in blue, with a green tint, and with the multicolour background characteristic of Bradbury, Wilkinson, its British producers. The bank seal, lower centre, is overprinted in red. Observe the engraving at the extreme left, suggesting that a counterfoil was attached before issue, which would be remarkable in itself on a twentieth century note, particularly a fractional value.

HOW JUST PLAIN MONEY CAN MAKE MORE MONEY

By J. K. EDMONDS

The Financial Post, Toronto, Canada

Six years ago, Theater Poster Services Ltd., a Winnipeg advertising firm, was looking for a new way to help its clients lure more children into Saturday movies.

On the basis of a small item in a trade magazine, they decided to try foreign coins.

Each child got a map on his first visit, and a foreign coin on each subsequent visit to the movies, with a prize for collecting all 15 coins offered.

As a result, the firm now has a second business (International Coin Co.) with a volume more than equal to its original lines, and with customers all over the world.

Through a subsidiary (Canadian Numismatic Publishing Institute) it has published a Guide Book of Canadian Coins, Currency and Tokens which has sold more than 55,000 copies since April, 1959, and is in use in the British Museum, the Library of Congress, the Royal Danish Museum, and other major reference institutions.

Canadian firms in Winnipeg and Toronto, are now making, for International Coin, half a dozen items of coin-collectors' supplies formerly imported from the U. S.

"We didn't have any idea what we were getting into," recalls Somer James, vice president of Theater Poster Services and president of International Coin.

"All we wanted was some low-denomination foreign coins to hand out to the kids. But the promotion caught on.

"Odeon used it in 45 theaters, and a number of independents used it. We found we needed more and more coins.

"We had to start ordering bulk quantities from the larger coin dealers in the U. S.

"Then we got to the point where they couldn't supply us, but instead we were supplying them with Canadian coins.

"To get our supplies of foreign coins, we took to dealing directly with foreign mints in quantities of 50,000-100,000 coins at a time, and the next thing we knew, we were coin wholesalers."

Getting coins from foreign mints required salesmanship in some cases.

The large Irish penny has a metallic value greater than the face value of the coin. The Irish government lost money every time it sold pennies abroad.

Theater Poster had to enlist the aid of the Irish Tourist Board to persuade the government to release pennies on the ground that their wide-spread circulation in Canada would promote interest in Ireland.

Another hazard was encountered in Jamaica, which coined only enough currency for international use and had a regulation against export of coins.

This was waived by the Colonial Currency Board in London, which at that time controlled circulation of Jamaican coins.

By 1956, the coin business had grown to the point where International Coin Co. had to be set up to handle it.

A brisk market had developed for coin collectors' supplies (folders, coin envelopes, coin bags, acetate paper-money holders).

International Coin imported these to distribute to other dealers, then began designing new items to be made in Canada.

One item they felt the trade needed very badly was a new coin catalogue suitable for use by the novice. Existing catalogues had limited distribution and were soberly written for the expert collector.

With the aid of H. C. Taylor, a coin collector of over 25 years' experience, International Coin prepared a 152-page illustrated Coin Guide.

More than a catalogue, the book contains a brief history of Canadian currency, a "how-to-do-it" section for the new collector, and an illustrated guide to Canadian paper money as well as tokens and coins.

The book was distributed through news dealers on a fully-returnable basis, and was handled by other coin dealers as well.

To avoid giving International Coin advantage in handling coin sales generated by the book, the subsidiary "Canadian Numismatic Publishing Institute" was created to publish it.

Collectors from California to Maine, as well as Canadians, bought the book; 15,000 of the 55,000 copies distributed so far have gone to the U. S.

"Without knowing it, we happened into the coin business just when it was undergoing a big expansion," James explains.

"For years coin collecting had been an unusual hobby — it's rare to find a collector with the long experience of Mr. Taylor.

"Now it's a very big thing. Membership in the Canadian Numismatic society is growing at the rate of 20% per year and is now over 2,000."

There are about 40 coin clubs in Canada. In the U. S., coin collecting started growing earlier, and is growing at about the same rate.

Interest in collecting Canadian coins is growing even faster, since many U. S. collectors are switching to "Canadiana" as a specialty.

James offers several reasons for the upsurge in coin collecting.

All hobbies are gaining ground with the increase in leisure time. Coin collecting has the same appeal as stamp collecting, but is a little newer.

The difficulties of handling and displaying a coin collection (both sides of the coin must be displayed, and weight is a problem) have been overcome by the introduction of polyethylene coin envelopes, display cases, and other accessories.

A 50¢ folder is all a youngster needs to begin collecting coins. Since people are handling coins all the time, once they begin to take an interest in date, condition and rarity, it's easy to build a collection.

Coin clubs have spread interest rapidly, since they offer social contacts and an easy introduction to the refinements of collecting.

The popularity of Canadian coins with U. S. collectors is partly the result of the fact that denominations are the same (making it easy for the novice) and that Canadian coins are in circulation in the border states. But more important, Canadian coins have a world-wide reputation for beauty and fine execution, and U. S. collectors like the royal symbols on the coins.

Experts as well as novices have taken up "Canadians" as a specialty, James says.

As soon as interest in Canadian coins began to grow, U. S. collectors began investing in scarce items like the 50¢ piece of 1932.

Only 19,000 of these were minted, and a little arithmetic with the growth with the growth of population in North America and the proportion of collectors in the population suggested that these would soon become very valuable.

(Current catalogue price: $3 each if in "good" condition; $75 if in "extra fine" condition.)

As U. S. collectors bid up the prices of Canadian coins, more Canadians became interested.

"Every few weeks there's a story in the paper about someone getting a big price for a Canadian coin," says

Within two years, according to James they are likely to be worth a minimum of 15% over face value.

Small cents of 1957 in mint-sealed bags are now selling at three times face value, and dealers are paying 60% over face value for some uncirculated 1958 coins already.

This market has to be watched, of course, just like the securities market.

Canadian silver dollars, which had been rising rapidly until recently, have been slow over the past three months owing to profit-taking.

Mint-sealed bags are usually sold to dealers at a third to a half of catalogue value, James says.

The coins must be fed into the market slowly, over two or three years, and part of a dealer's skill comes in judging how many of a given denomination the market will be able to

Mr. X invested $500 in coins in 1954:

He bought (in mint-sealed bags):

Five bags of pennies (10,000)	$ 100.00
Two bags of nickels (2,000)	100.00
One bag of dimes (1,000)	100.00
One bag of quarters (400)	100.00
One bag of half-dollars (100)	50.00
One bag of silver dollars (50)	50.00

Total face value of 1954 coins ..... $ 500.00

Cost of investment at 5% per year ..... 125.00

Storage and depreciation ..... nil

Cost ..... $ 625.00

In 1959 he sold the coins to a dealer for 1/3 catalogue value:

Uncirculated 1954 pennies 30¢ each	$3,000.00
" " nickels 40¢ each	800.00
" " dimes 60¢ each	600.00
" " quarters $1.35 each	540.00
" " half-dollars $2 each	200.00
" " silver dollars $4.50 each	450.00

Total catalogue value in 1959 ..... $5,590.00

Received from dealer ..... 1,863.32

Less cost ..... 6.25.00

Profit ..... $1,238.32

The catch:

Mr. X had to do this in 1954. If every reader of FP tried to do it now, the mint would respond by striking more coins, and dealers in 1965 would be less eager to buy five-year-old-mint-sealed bags of coins.

But dealers point out that interest in collecting Canadian coins is still growing rapidly, especially in the U. S., suggesting a continued bull market in uncirculated Canadian coins. And of course, they add, you can always spend them.

James. "That always starts a flurry of interest in coin collecting here."

Besides the ordinary run of novice and expert collectors, there are also "vest-pocket dealers"—usually men who travel around a good deal, and can buy coins in out of the way places, then bring them to a major dealer for sale.

"Retired railwaymen often become vest-pocket coin dealers," James says. "It keeps them busy, gives them a reason for traveling, and occasionally makes them some money."

An investment of from $3,000 to $6,000 in coins, and an ad in the numismatic journals, puts them in business. Essential equipment is ability to judge the "condition" of coins and familiarity with market prices.

A favorite gimmick of collectors is to put away a bag of uncirculated coins the year they are issued, then sell them to a dealer a few years later at a profit.

The coins are bought from a branch of a chartered bank in "mint-sealed" bags at face value.

absorb within a period of time.

But even at that, a coin collector who put away a bag of pennies (2,000 to a bag) to celebrate his son's birth in 1939 was able to get $3,000 from a dealer for them last year — enough to pay the boy's university expenses.

What does the mint think of all this? According to James, the collectors and dealers are probably a nuisance to the mint, but are treated with great courtesy and co-operation.

The mint does make a small profit on the coins it issues — and of course the tribute paid by collectors to the Canadian standard of coinage is a source of pride.

Like the Post Office, the mint does cater to collectors by producing "mint sets" of each year's coinage.

These are coins struck by the usual machinery, but then placed by hand in cardboard holders, not subjected to the abrasion that occurs in bags.

Face value of the coins is $1.91. The mint charged $3 for this year's mint sets, for which dealers are now offering $4.25. (cont. on page 26)

JUST ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Carson City Dollars are the most underpriced series of all coins minted.

All one has to do is check the number minted of each year and you will see that there will never be enough to supply our five (5) million or more (est.) collectors.

Take the 1885 with only 228,000 minted. This would be one for about every twenty-one collectors.

Second comes the 1881 with only 296,000 and so on.

I have a few sets of the 1880 through 1885 complete in Strictly Brilliant Uncirculated.

SPECIAL: For Set of Six (6) . . . $39.50

My second offering this month is, in my opinion, a small set with a future. The War Time Silver Nickel consisting of 11 coins minted 1942 to 1945. (See Red Book.) This set in Brilliant Uncirculated is beautiful and also underpriced in this booming coin market.

My price for the complete set is . . . . $9.95 Only until present stock is sold.

The 1943-D is of course in this set and this is one that I compare in value to the 1942-D which is selling today for $6.50 each.

NO LIBERTY

I read your columns about rare finds. Recently I've found a 1939-D half dollar without "LIBERTY" on obverse.

The coin is in V.G. condition and otherwise it seems to be normal except, that the word "LIBERTY" entirely is missing.

I'd appreciate if you or your readers could let me know anything about this coin as to how many are known or its value, if any.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY COIN CLUB

Meetings of the Middlesex County Coin Club are held the 3rd Wednesday of every month at 8:00 P. M. at the American Legion Hall, Lake & Holly Sts., Metuchen, N. J.

The new officers of the club are: President, Mr. Kenn Morrison; V. President, Mr. Milton Stern; Sec'y.-Treas., Mr. Edward Skiba; Corr. Sec'y., Mrs. Patricia Kiraly; Sgt. At Arms, Mr. Alexander Paskowitz.

H. A. N. A. HILITES

The 288th consecutive monthly meeting of the Heart of America Numismatic Association was held Monday night, February 16th, at the Stewart Sand and Materials Building. Over 135 members and guests were present. Dan Ellis announced that twelve new membership applications were accepted. This brings our total paid membership for 1960 to 185. If the renewals and new applications continue at this rate, H.A.N.A. should reach 600 members this year.

President Buford Ellis announced that three new coin shops had opened here in Kansas City, Missouri, in the last month. We now have eight fine coin shops, all doing well.

Ray Lefman reported that the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Muehlebach has been reserved for the weekend of November 26th and 27th for the second annual Midwest Coin Fair. Co-Chairman Lefman and Ralph Bondon are already laying the groundwork for what should prove to be another terrific success.

The raffle, under the direction of Harold Elssinger, went off without a hitch. Jim Kilgore won the first prize of a $5.00 gold piece; Ken Winterod drew second for an 1855 half cent and John Serafin won a 1958 Canadian silver dollar. The door prize, a 1946 S B. U. 50c, contributed by Buford Ellis, was won by Marquis Hibbs.

Next month Bill Knapp is to discuss his fine collection with us and offer his suggestions to new collectors.

GRADING STANDARD

PROOF — Coin, a mirror-like finish, especially struck for collectors on polished metal blanks and struck by slower hydraulic press to obtain best feature lines.

UNCIRCULATED — made for general circulation has lustre but Nnc. is usually well struck, has lustre, no scratches, rubbings or mars.

EXTRA FINE & A. U. — about same. Coin is about uncirculated slightly worn on high points and may have some mint lustre.

V. Fine — Has been circulated but all features and lettering are sharp.

Fine — Has all features and lettering but not sharp. Liberty is readable.

V.G. — Has border rims most features and lines visible. Part of Liberty visible.

GOOD — All features and lines worn but visible.

FAIR — Considerably worn.

POOR — Considerably worn smooth, or corroded, good only as space filler.

This grading is used only as a guide to help you and is a general medium used by all dealers and collectors in the Numismatic field.

POINTS TO LOOK FOR ON SOME POPULAR COINS

1 CENT LINCOLN: The lines on wheat stalk and Lincoln's ear are a good spot to look for wear. On a coin classed as very good most lines should be showing on a coin graded fine they should be clear.

5 CENT LIBERTY: E Pluribus Unum is legible on coins graded good, clear on coins graded very good. One graded fine should have full liberty.

5 CENT BUFFALO: On a good coin edge of word liberty may be slightly worn, but on one graded very good the word Liberty is clear and one-half of horn shows, a fine coin should have nearly a full horn, a coin classed as very fine has full horn and tail shows on hip.

10 CENT MERCURY: Watch lines on axe fasces, on coins classed very good some lines show, a fine coin should have all lines.

FOR BEGINNERS who are just starting to collect, here are a few suggestions and some advice. First, a coin guide book is a must. They can be purchased for $1.00 or more for helpful information: on care, condition, value, amount minted, types, how coins are made, and other news of help and interest. Most coins can be found in circulation. As you are making your set always try to improve the worn coins. Value of coins depends greatly on the condition. Never clean or polish coins unless you are experienced. If you must try, use a common date coin. There are handy cleaning kits available for this purpose. Coin insert folders and other supplies can be obtained at your dealer. You may also notice that the age of old coins do not make them rare. There are some late date coins minted that are worth more than some hundreds of years old. What makes one coin worth more than another by these factors: Amount of coins minted, availability, collectors' demand and any unusual die strikes. Coins can be obtained through purchases, by auction or trading with collectors.

MINT SETS: Uncirculated 1959 coins of the two mints of Philadelphia and Denver (10 coins) may be obtained from the Treasurer of the United States, Cash Division, Washington 25, D.C. These sets are $2.40 apiece (10 coins) and may be ordered through December 1960.

PROOF SETS of current year send $2.10 money order to Supt. Phila. Mint, 16th and Spring Garden Streets, Philadelphia, Pa. You may order up to 100 sets per person.

COMMEMORATIVE half dollars are authorized periodically by Congress. These halves when issued are not sold by the mints. They are turned over to a Commission authorized by Congress at face value. The Commission then sells the halves at a premium.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

"Proof sets", which are occasionally produced, are made from specially polished dies.

According to the Coin Guide, the last year in which proof sets were offered to the public was 1937 (current catalogue value. $125.00)

In the works now, at International Coin, is another edition of the Coin Guide, and two new publications, one of them a special guide to Canadian silver dollars.

"With everyone from bankers to school-boys setting up coin collections," says James, "we figure we're in the coin business to stay."
